Writer's Haven Show with V. Helena joins forces with the Black Authors

Showcasing the work of authors and filmmakers around the world!

Washington, DC, January 18, 2018: The Writer's Haven Show, hosted by author and filmmaker V. Helena, entered its 1st season with a plethora of talented authors and filmmakers lined up to discuss their 3 Ps (passion, process, and projects) to an audience of “dreamers” and “dreamcatchers”. If you're interesting in learner who or what a dreamer and dreamcatcher is, you're not alone. Students of literature and film tuned in to see and hear their favorite writers and filmmakers discuss their “fantastic and creative voyage” with talk show host, V. Helena, who found a balance in connecting the two. “Dreamcatchers are dreamers who catch fire on purpose,” V. Helena explained to her televised audience when prompted by guest and filmmaker Donte Morrison during the 1st episode. She spent the rest of the season energizing that connection.

From novice to seasoned authors and filmmakers, THE HAVEN (as it is commonly known) has become the place to congregate and talk shop. With her poised, personable, and relaxed command of each interview, V. Helena has successfully maneuvered beyond the initial “make or break” stages of what has become a dynamic and inspiring collection of episodes. Completing 15 episodes in its 1st season and picking up 18 stations in syndication before the start of a new season, it is very evident The Writer's Haven Show with V. Helena is a tour de force.

Season II launches on January 22, 2018 and features New York Times Best Selling author, Connie Briscoe as well as interviews throughout the season with New York Times Best Selling authors Tina McElroy Ansa, Lolita Files, Marita Golden, Victor McGlothlin and award-winning filmmaker, Haila Gerima.
